South-Carolina GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1772.

Printed by POWELL, HUGHES, & Co. at the Printing-Office on the BAY, near the EXCHANGE.

Messrs. POWELL & HUGHES,

I this Day received the inclosed Letter from a Friend, and have sent it you for Insertion, in Hopes that it may induce the Gentlemen, &c. of this Province to repair thither for the Recovery of their Healths, instead of resorting annually to the Northern Colonies, by which Practice they enrich them and impoverish this. I am, Yours, &c. A CONSTANT READER.

"From the Mountains, June 14, 1772.

Luxuriant Nature here her Verdure shoots,
And loaded Branches bend beneath their Fruits;
The wanton Fawn his frisky Gambols plays,
And the wild Herds on pleni'ous Herbage graze:
The beauteous Prospect kindles warm Desire,
And blooming Health here glows with genial Fire;
Sweet smiling Peace in every Aspect shines,
With greater Lustre than Peruvian Mines:
Here the clear Streams descend in purling Rills,
The generous Tribute of a Thousand Hills.
Come, come, ye Muses! ———

PARDON me, Sir, so wrapt in Extasy, I should have wrote you a long Letter in Rhyme, had I not been struck with a due Sense of your superior Abilities: I therefore must beg Leave in humble Prose to acquaint you in the most candid Manner, agreeable to my Judgment, of the great Value of the new Acquisition lately added to this Province.

"Near the Thirty-fifth Degree of Latitude has been allowed in general the healthiest and most luxuriant Part, both for Pleasure and Necessaries of Life, round the habitable Globe: But as the most general Thesis will admit of some Exceptions, so may some Parts of South-Carolina, especially near the Sea Coast, be excluded from the Character of a healthy Situation—the Reasons for their being so, I shall leave to Speculation, and proceed.

"Health begins to extend her Bounty where the Current of the Waters becomes more agitated by a quick Descent from the Hills, and runs amongst Rocks, Pebles, and fine Gravel.—Here is no putrid Mud lodging at the Bottom; the Soil and Wood are of a different Nature; Musketoes, Sand-Flies, and other tormenting Vermin, are hardly known here; but the Land, as you approach the Mountains, becomes more hilly, yet not less rich and fertile. We are now arrived at the Summit of human Health, which cannot be exceeded, if equalled, in any Part of the World.—Agues and Intermitting Fevers are not known; Consumptions, Pleurisies, and many other Complaints, incident to the lower Parts of this Country, are seldom heard of.

"It is true, Luxury, the Parent of Disease, is not yet arrived with its numerous Ills; nor have Doctors yet dispersed their poisonous Nostrums—simple Nature being the only practising Physician amongst the Inhabitants.—Every Cottage you may see thronged with healthy and blooming Children.—Old Age seems here to forget its Infirmities, smiling to see the healthy Progeny of its fourth Generation; and when borne down by the Devastations of Time, they drop like ripe Fruit, not rashly plucked by the Hand of inveterate Disease. You perhaps may be surprised when I acquaint you, that I have seen Men aged upwards of one hundred Years, working in the Field with all the Vigour of Youth, and the Faculties of the Mind unimpaired.—What Delight would it give you to hear them speak of Occurrences which happened Eighty, Ninety, or an Hundred and ten Years ago, as Matters of Yesterday? and their Conversation and old Age claim in me more Respect than Honours conferred of a less momentary Date.

"When your Province calls for Aid, from hence you must draw forth your veteran Troops, fit to endure the Toils of War, and with due Cultivation, might perhaps equal the Roman Glory.—It is true, the Spirit of Emulation is at present but in its Infant State, yet, when nursed by the Hand of a wise Legislature, there is no Doubt but they will be stimulated to Action—then will Commerce, Industry, and becoming Ambition, rise Hand in Hand, and extend their Blessings to Ages yet unborn.

"Fearing I have trespassed on your Favour by too long a Letter, I beg Leave to reserve the Remainder of my Observations for some future Opportunity. I am, &c.

IT would afford the Subscriber great Satisfaction, if three or four Persons, well experienced in the INDICO BUSINESS, would undertake the Sorting and Garbling of Indico for Exportation; by which Means that valuable Produce might recover its Reputation both at Home and at Foreign Markets.—If Persons properly qualified are not to be found in this Province, there is yet sufficient Time to send for them from England, as it will not suit him to inspect any Indico, of the approaching Crop, but for the under-mentioned Gentlemen; who, should they continue to employ him, can furnish him with as much Indico as he shall be able to attend to; nor will he desire more from them than his customary Fee of Three per Cent. on the Value of such Indico; and he makes not the least Doubt, but that the Indico inspected by him, will continue to have the Preference with the principal Purchasers at Home, to any other Indico shipped from this Province, and meet with immediate Sale on Arrival—a Fact so well known, as to need no further Explanation from LONDON.

[The following ADDRESS should have made its Appearance in this Gazette some Weeks ago, but has been omitted from Time to Time for Want of Room.]

To the worthy LIVERYMEN of the CITY of LONDON.

GENTLEMEN, Guildhall, April 6, 1772.

HAVING now completed more than six months of the year, which you assigned us for an important office, we desire your acceptance of our hearty thanks for the assistance we have received from you in the discharge of our duty, and entreat the continuance of your support and friendly counsels. We have from time to time submitted our conduct to you on a variety of occasions, and to the last moment of our Sheriffalty are determined, that every public transaction, in which we may be concerned, shall be given in all its circumstances to our candid and discerning constituents, to whose impartial judgment we will always chearfully appeal.

The new Freeholders' Book for the county of Middlesex, and the Jurors' book for the city of Westminster, have been from the beginning of this year deposited in the proper offices, and are now always used. The Jurors' book for the city of London is not yet completed, and we fear cannot be perfected before the end of Easter Term.

The Bailiffs and other inferior officers of Justice, have been strictly watched, and regularly kept within the bounds of their duty, except in some few instances. The parties aggrieved have in every such case found the most speedy relief. We have the satisfaction of reflecting, that the extent and populousness of our jurisdiction considered, the applications for redress of any kind have not been numerous, and we owe it to the public character of your Sheriffs to declare, that not one has proved ineffectual, when the complaint was well grounded. Few grievances have come to our knowledge, none been left unredressed. We think it becomes us to make this appeal to our fellow citizens, while the power still remains in our hands to do justice to every person.

Our particular attention has been bestowed on the many unhappy objects under our care in jails, prisons, and lock-up houses. We have frequently in person attended this essential duty, and afforded every alleviation in our power to the miseries of those, who languish under the loss of the noblest blessing, and most valuable enjoyment, personal liberty. We may congratulate our countrymen, that the number of these unfortunate persons has not been attempted to be increased this session by any illegal Royal Proclamations, or commitments, during pleasure, made by either of the two Houses of Parliament. Their late usurpations on the personal rights and privileges of the people seem to be given up and surrendered. The Lords have not dared so unconstitutional an order of imprisonment, nor to impose any fines at their arbitrary will, for offences cognizable by Juries. No man has been committed at their bar for what their votes, not the laws, declare seditious, nor for what they so readily find a libel on a brother Peer, nor have they ventured to condemn any person on the first original hearing of a cause, which ought to come before them only by appeal from the inferior courts after the verdict of a Jury. The House of Commons have tacitly acquiesced, in the claim made by many of our worthy fellow-citizens for the people at large, that the constituents of this kingdom have a right to be fully informed of all the proceedings of their servants in Parliament. Their votes indeed assert, "that it is an indignity to, and a breach of, the privilege of the "House, for any person to presume to give, in written or printed "news-papers, any account, or minutes of the debates or other "proceedings of the House, or of any Committee thereof;" but the usurpation was opprest, as well as the dignity to their masters, and the breach of the privileges of their constituents. Their other resolution in consequence fell into contempt, "that "upon discovery of the authors, printers, or publishers of any "such written or printed news-paper, the House will proceed "against the offenders with the utmost severity." Several honest printers, in defiance of their illegal orders, gave the public under their names all the particulars of their proceedings during the last session, which the House so prudently endeavoured to hide in a darkness suited to their deeds. The most natural effect followed, a general abhorrence of them through the nation. The same persons, who asserted our right the last winter, have through the present session continued the exercise of it in its fullest extent. Notwithstanding the report of the Committee to examine into the several facts and circumstances relative to the late obstructions to the execution of the orders of the House, and to consider what further proceedings may be requisite to enforce a due obedience thereto, was, in express terms, that the House should order, that the said J. MILLER be taken into custody of the Serjeant at Arms attending the House, the said J. MILLER is still at large, still continues the severest attack upon them by faithfully publishing their proceedings, still braves their indignation, and—sleeps secure in the City. Among the number of daily offenders of this kind, the corrupt majority in the House of Commons have not presumed to commit a single printer, although by the late Royal Marriage Bill they have invaded the primary, inherent rights of human nature, and the divine institutions, in the persons of the descendants of the late most excellent King, and, regardless of the cries of the starving poor, employed themselves this whole session only to enslave the family of a Prince, whose memory becomes every day more dear and sacred to all true Englishmen. The people are now made the judges of the conduct of their representatives, and the full exertion of the liberty of the press, the great bulwark of all our liberties, in support of the constitution, with the other acquisitions of the public, will render this æra ever memorable in our annals. These triumphs over the ministerial faction we hold more important at this period, because they have been gained, when the Chief Magistrate of the capital had betrayed the rights he was chosen to defend, and trampled upon the known privileges of all the electors of this great City, which his upright predecessor vindicated with true spirit and courage. Many friends of the cause of Liberty we know are apprehensive that the late usurpations will be soon renewed, or at least in the following year. We entreat them not to despond, nor to indulge that gloomy idea. During our continuance in office we will stand forth the protectors of the just privileges of the subject. Your virtue, Gentlemen of the Livery of London, will at the ensuing Midsummer give us successors, equally zealous and undaunted in the cause of freedom and our country.

We are, Gentlemen,
With great deference,
Your obedient, and faithful humble servants,
JOHN WILKES.
FRED. BULL.

Found, on Saturday last, by a Negro Man,

A PIECE OF GOLD.

The Person who lost the same, may have it again by describing the Piece, paying the Charge of advertising, and giving the Fellow something for his Honesty. Enquire at the Printing-Office, near the Exchange. July 14th, 1772.

Messrs. POWELL & HUGHES,

The Sickliness of the present Time, gave Rise to the following Reflections—the Publication of which in your next Gazette, will oblige, Yours, &c. CLIO.

Reflections on the PRESENT MOMENT.

——— Life speeds away
From Point to Point, tho' seeming to stand still.
The cunning Fugitive is swift by Stealth:
Too subtle is the Movement to be seen;
Yet soon Man's Hour is up, and we are gone.
YOUNG's Night Thoughts.

THE Now, th' important Now! is all we have,
Our sole Dependance on this Side the Grave!
Another Moment we may never see;
For this, if 'tis th' Omnipotent's Decree,
May end our State of Pilgrimage below,
And Death may summons us to Bliss or Woe.
Time, in his revolving Car, appears,
To promise yet a numerous Race of Years:
The World's last irrevocable Doom,
May yet for Thousand Ages be to come:
But yet the sad Reverse of all may be,
To-morrow's Sun may never rise to thee;
To-morrow's Dawn may see the World expire,
Creation melt in elemental Fire;
Each Purpose of our Life may be destroy'd,
And all the pleasing Hopes our Thoughts employ'd
Absorb'd and lost. The Grave's cold dusty Bed,
Reluctantly may yield her silent Dead.
In Place of Sun and Sunshine, we may see
The Dead uprais'd, and hear the God's Decree;
In Place of those harmonious Sounds that charm
The list'ning Ear, and blunt Affliction's Arm;
The Cries of tortur'd Souls may rend the Sky,
And Death, in Thousand Shapes, salute the Eye.
How should we then esteem the present Hour,
And think on Death while Thought is in our Power!
How learn to prize the passing Now, the Time
We still enjoy, to deprecate each Crime!
To get Almighty Mercy on our Side,
Before the wide, th' unfathom'd Gulph is try'd—
That Gulph "from whence no Traveller returns,"
But bathes in Pleasure, or in Torment burns.
No Man, Time's Purpose or Intention sees;
He works by imperceptible Degrees.
What's past we know—the present can reveal—
The rest a Cloud of Darkness does conceal.
From past Events our future Life to frame,
Is sure, of Wisdom's Lore, the Height supreme!
Know how by these to curb the stubborn Will,
And draw a Virtue from each acted Ill;
By retrospective Views to teach the Mind
The Good she may from her Experience find;
The Soul by wisest Counsels to advise,
To value Time, and every Moment prize.
What Changes may another Day bring forth?
How many summon'd to their Mother Earth?
How many fall before the smiling Sun,
His Course around the Zodiac has run?
To-day Man's dress'd in Gold and Silver bright?
Wrapt in a Shroud before To-morrow Night.
To-day gay Health illuminates his Eyes;
To-morrow pale and motionless he lies.
To-day the Strength of Sampson nerves his Pow'rs;
To-morrow weak, and fall'n as faded Flow'rs.
To-day he's feeding on delicious Food;
To-morrow dead, unable to do Good.
To-day he's nice, and scorns to feed on Crumbs?
To-morrow he's himself a Dish for Worms.
To-day he's honour'd, and in vast Esteem;
To-morrow not a Beggar values him.
To-day he rises from a Velvet Bed;
To-morrow lies in one that's made of Lead.
To-day his House, tho' large, he thinks too small;
To-morrow no Command—no House at all.
To-day has Forty Servants at his Gate;
To-morrow scorn'd, not one of them will wait.
To-day perfum'd, as sweet as any Rose;
To-morrow stinks in every Body's Nose.
To-day his Projects and Intents he scans,
And talks of Travels into foreign Lands:
But ere To-morrow's Dawn salutes the Sun,
His Schemes are baffl'd, and his Journey's done.
To-morrow I'll amend my Life, he cries,
Alas, To-morrow! "'till To-day he dies."
True, as the Scriptures say, Man's Life's a Span,
The present Moment is the Life of Man.
Look round the World, what Thousands shall we find,
So prone to Villainy of ev'ry Kind;
Who still from Folly on to Folly run,
And seldom cease until they are undone:
Who ne'er are happy, but in Search of Vice,
And all to that lov'd Idol sacrifice:
Who spend in Sin whole Days, and Months, and Years,
And never pray but when grim Death appears;
Then full of Sorrow, low repentant lie,
Athirst to live, and much afraid to die.
Delays breed Dangers in Affairs below;
And are there none to fear in Heav'n, I'd know?
Shall a small Fault, a Thing perform'd amiss,
Be put in Balance with eternal Bliss?
Shall what is trivial, frivolous, and vain,
Be dreaded more than everlasting Pain?
Frail Man! correct thine Error, learn to know,
That Life at best is but a Scene of Woe.
Our Pleasures few, and oft in tasting cloy,
And always blended with some coarse Alloy.
That here our Time is short, a Span, a Breath,
No sooner born, but then a Prey to Death.
A Day, an Hour, a Moment's not our own,
And Heav'n our State of perfect Bliss alone.

CHARLES-TOWN, JULY 23.

LAST Friday Morning about two o'Clock, the Town was alarmed with the Cry of Fire, which had broke out in a Kitchen, back of some Buildings between Church-street and Bedon's Alley, a Part very closely built, which it entirely consumed (except the Walls) and another adjoining, before it could be extinguished.—Happily there was no Wind, or the Damage might have been very considerable; for, altho' the Engines were soon brought to the Spot, there was a Difficulty in getting Water, owing to the unpardonable Carelessness of those who have Wells in their Yards, and also in bringing the People to form Lines to where it could be got, which ought, and it is hoped, will in future be, the principal Object of all who attend to give Assistance in extinguishing Fires, especially as the Fire-Masters have chosen a Number of the Inhabitants to direct that particular Business.——One DUNCAN, an ingenious Locksmith, passing by a Store of Mr. Rugeley, where they were throwing Trunks of Goods out of a Window too heedlessly, had his Back and several of his Ribs broke, and was otherwise so terribly hurt, that he languished 'till Monday, and then expired.

The same Day died, Miss Sally Harleston, youngest Daughter of the late John Harleston, Esquire.

On Sunday last died, Miss Manon Guerin, a maiden Lady, born in this Province, aged 63 Years, and of a most exemplary Life and Character——A better Christian never lived or died.

Almost every Evening for this Week, we have had sudden and violent Thunder Gusts, with severe Lightning, which have done Damage at different Places.—— Monday Evening the Brig Charming Betsy, Noble Hinman Master, lying in Ashley River, was struck with one Flash, which killed a hired Negro, (whose Owner is not yet discovered) and much hurt three Seamen between Decks, and did a good deal of Damage above, melting the Pitch, forcing the Oakum out of the Seams, and shivering the Spars to Splinters, &c.

Tuesday Night died very suddenly, Mr. Archibald Watson, who was several Years Gunner at Fort Johnson.

The Brig Pompey, John Healy Master, from New-York for St. Augustine, was spoke with, passing by this Bar, last Saturday, all well on Board.

A Sloop from New-York, Captain Stout, bound for Pensacola, and laden with Flour, &c. was cast away about the 24th of last Month, upon the Bahama Bank. The Captain and Crew finding it impossible to get her off, took to their Boat, and were taken up by some Providence Wreckers, who afterwards sought for the Vessel in vain, so that it is thought she must have gone to Pieces.

As several Hundred Bags of Cotton, and a very considerable Quantity of Indico have recently been found among the Bahama Keys, 'tis supposed some French Vessels from Hispaniola have been wrecked upon them. They had Advice at Providence of one Ship, but the Wreckers had not found her ten Days ago.

On the 1st Instant, the Ship Hibbert, a three-Decker, of about 600 Tons, John Boyd Master, from Jamaica for London, laden with Rum, Sugar, &c. was cast ashore among the Florida Keys. The Captain (with two Passengers, Captain Barry of Barbados, and one Mr. Graham) arrived at Providence the 14th, and hired Vessels to save as much of the Cargo as possible, as the Ship had not gone to Pieces.

A Snow from Jamaica for England, has also been found among the same Keys, deserted by her People, the Names therefore not known.

Yesterday put into this Port, the Ship Newmarket, of and for London, from Jamaica, Joseph Barker Master, in Want of Water and other Necessaries, having been ashore upon the Bahama Bank, near the Membro Rocks, to get her off which they were obliged to heave overboard 36 Hogsheads of Sugar, 70 Puncheons of Rum, some Fustick, Logwood, and many other Articles, with all their Water except one Cask.

This Morning the Sandwich Packet-Boat, commanded by Capt. Richard Nottingham, sailed with the Mails for Falmouth.

Dr. Keyser's GENUINE Pills
Are SOLD by
POWELL, HUGHES, & Co.

At the Printing-Office in the BAY, near the Exchange.

 Who, far from thinking "it NEEDLESS to trouble "the Public with more Encomiums on the Effects of this "Remedy," look upon it as their Duty to insert the following Particulars of Keyser's invaluable Medicine, in Order that the Afflicted in this Province, may, in some Respects, be made acquainted with the Virtues of the most efficacious Medicine ever discovered, and know where to apply for Relief, without the Danger of having a spurious Sort imposed on them, notwithstanding any forcible "PERHAPS" to the Contrary; and the Public may be assured, that the Pills sold at the above Place were received from Mr. Keyser, therefore there can be no "Perhaps" entertained of THEIR not being the GENUINE, unless it is by such who are naturally Obstinate and Conceited, without one good Quality to entitle them to be either.

KEYSER's PILLS, after numerous Trials, have proved to be the safest, best, mildest, and most agreeable Medicine ever offered to the Public, for the Cure of the VENEREAL DISEASE, from the slightest Infection to the most inveterate State of that dreadful and almost unconquerable Disorder: Nor hath any Medicine been presented to the Public, whose Cures are so well attested, and regularly authenticated, as those performed by these invaluable Pills, for they have not only received the Sanction and Approbation of Noblemen and Ambassadors of the first Rank and Quality, who have inspected, and been Eye Witnesses to several surprising great Cures performed by them, but likewise of the Members of the Academy of Arts and Sciences, and of the Faculties of Physic and Surgery in most Parts of Europe.

This is the Medicine so much sought after by the repeated and indefatigable Labours of a great Number of learned and ingenious Chymists, for these Two Hundred Years past.—The celebrated Boerhaave, in particular, endeavouring to find out a mild Mercurial Medicine, like this of Mr. KEYSER's, fell upon the following Method to procure it, but did not succeed:—He fastened Bottles of Mercury to the Sails of a Wind-Mill for many Months, in Order, by the Effects of Motion, to bring it into an Æthiops per se. But this great and useful Production was reserved to recompence the Researches of the successful Mr. KEYSER; who, after many repeated Trials in his private Practice, proposed it to the Gentlemen of the Faculty, as the most knowing and learned Judges, whose Testimonies could not be suspected; before whom public Proofs and Trials were made of his Remedy.—The Success attending his first public Trials was established and proved by several rigid and nice Examinations not only immediately after the Patients had been treated with his Medicine, but even for the Space of one and two Years afterwards, to see whether his numerous Cures were durable; when, to the Honour of Mr. KEYSER, not a single Instance could be found of its Failure, though many of his Patients were so far gone in the Venereal Disorder, as well as with a Complication of others, that little Hopes were entertained of the Probability of their Recovery.

Immediately after which Transactions, the Trials being made in Paris, the King settled a Pension of Ten Thousand Livres per Annum on Mr. KEYSER, granted him his Royal Letters Patent, and had an Hospital erected, where these Pills are administered in every Stage of the Venereal Disorder, from whence not less than Two Thousand Patients have been discharged, perfectly cured, in the Space of a few Years.

From the above Facts, it is not to be wondered that the highest Encomiums have been passed on this Medicine, by the most eminent Physicians and Surgeons in all Parts of Europe; for Experience has convinced them, that it has succeeded beyond any Thing yet discovered, in absolutely curing not only the most obstinate and malignant Venereal Disorders, however complicated and inveterate they were, but likewise in a great Number of other perplexing chronical and lingering Disorders.

The above Pills effectually cure the Yaws, and have often performed great Cures in Gouty, Rheumatic, Scorbutic, and Scrofulous Disorders—the Piles, White-Swellings, Pimpled Faces, Asthmas, Suppressions of Urine, Palsies, Hysterics, and the Green Sickness.—As an Alterative they prevent Agues and Fevers, Apoplexies, Lethargies, Falling Sickness, Giddiness or Swimming in the Head, &c. &c. if a Box of them are taken in the Spring and Fall.—They are truly a Specific, and never fail curing a Fluor Albus, or that particular Weakness to which Females are so subject; and their superior Virtues over any other Medicines have often been happily experienced, for they have conquered several desperate Maladies which could not well be classed amongst the commonly-known Disorders, therefore were deemed incurable, as they yielded to no other Medicine.——They are so remarkable gentle in their Operation, that they may be taken at any Time, and even given to Children that have Worms, who in general are as fond of them as they are of Sweet-Meats.

They surprisingly strengthen the Constitution, create an Appetite, require no particular Regimen or Confinement, for they may be taken, without the least Danger to the Patients, by those who are obliged to be exposed to all Kinds of Weather, and a Patient may be cured by this Medicine without any Person about him, or even a Bed-fellow (provided it is not a Female one) harbouring the least Suspicion of his Disorder.

Some Readers may possibly imagine, that too many Virtues are here ascribed to this Medicine; and though they may allow its Efficacy in Venereal Disorders, cannot easily be persuaded that its Virtues extend to the Cure of others: But we would advise such to consult what has been so often and amply set forth by so many learned Men, and the most eminent Practitioners in Physic, of the four great Remedies, viz. Mercury, Opium, the Bark, and Steel, and they will be convinced in what a great Variety of Cases each of these excellent Medicines are employed in with Success; and was it not for the extraordinary Virtues of these few select Remedies, the Advantages accruing to Mankind from the Practice of Physic in general, would hardly render it worthy of Attention.

The above GENUINE Pills, are (by Mr. KEYSER's Appointment) sold by POWELL, HUGHES, & Co. at SIX DOLLARS the Whole Box, containing about One Hundred and Ten Pills, and THREE DOLLARS the Half Box, with full Directions for taking them, and enabling the Patient to judge of his own Disease.——One Whole Box, unless in an inveterate Complaint, is generally sufficient to perfect a Cure.

N. B. The Venders of the above Medicine, are so well assured (from several authenticated Testimonies, and the Assurances they have received from the Proprietor) of their proving efficacious in every Stage of the Venereal Disease (which several Persons in this Province have been already happily convinced of) that they hereby promise to return the Money, if a complete Cure is not performed, provided the Patient adheres to the Manner of taking it, as is given in the printed Directions.

Moral Reflections upon SELF-LOVE.

SELF-LOVE is the love of one's self, and of all things else, with reference to self. It makes men idolize themselves, and would make them tyrannize over others, if fortune put it in their power. It never loses sight of itself, and never stops for a while upon any external object, except, as bees do upon flowers, in order to extract what may serve its purposes. Nothing can be more impetuous than its desires, nothing more concealed than its projects, and nothing more artful than its conduct. Its subtility is not to be conceived, its transformations surpass the metamorphoses of ancient mythology, and its refinements exceed those of the chymists. Its depth is not to be sounded, and the darkness of its abysses are not to be penetrated. 'Tis hidden by them from the most piercing eyes, and wanders unseen through an inextricable labyrinth. In those recesses it is oft invisible to itself, it there, unknown to itself, conceives, nourishes, and brings to perfection, a thousand affections and hatreds. It forms some so monstrous, that, when it is delivered of them, it does not know them, or, at least, cannot resolve to own them. From this darkness, which surrounds it, arise the absurd persuasions which it has concerning itself. From thence proceed its errors, its ignorance, its gross mistakes, and its extravagancies. 'Tis this that makes it think its sentiments extinguished, when they only lie dormant; that makes it imagine it has no longer an inclination for exercise, when 'tis at rest; and that it has got rid of all the desires it has satiated. Yet this thick obscurity, which hides it from itself, does not prevent it from seeing external objects, in which respect it resembles the eye, which, as Shakespear says,

Sees not itself, but by reflection.

It, with the most ardent labour, strives to obtain things which are so far from being useful, that they may prove destructive; but still, through whim or caprice, it pursues them. It is fanciful, and often gives its whole application to the most trivial occupations; finds its highest pleasure in the most insipid, and preserves its whole pride in the most contemptible. 'Tis to be met with in every condition of life: It is every where; it can subsist upon every thing, and even upon nothing. It can find its account in the possession of things, and in their privation. It sometimes goes over to the side of those who oppose it; it enters into their views, and even conspires its own ruin. Its only desire is to exist, and, provided it exists, it is willing to be its own enemy. We should not then be surprised to see it sometimes unite with the greatest austerity, and contribute to its own destruction; because, at the same time that it destroys itself in one place, it finds means to gain ground in another. When we think it foregoes its pleasure, it only suspends or changes it; and even when it is subdued, and when we think we have got the better of it, it triumphs in its very defeat. Such is the nature of self-love, whose various agitations fill up the whole course of our lives. The sea is a sensible image of self-love, and its ebbings and flowings afford an exact representation of the turbulent succession of its thoughts, and its eternal emotions.

On the MATRIMONIAL STATE among the RUSSIANS.

THE Russian women are remarkably fair, comely, strong, and well-shaped, obedient to their lordly husbands, and patient under discipline, they are even said to be fond of correction, which they consider as an infallible mark of their husbands conjugal affection; and they pout and pine if it be with-held, as if they thought themselves treated with contempt and disregard. Of this neglect, however, they have very little cause to complain; the Russian husband is so very well disposed, by nature and inebriation, to exert his arbitrary power. Some writers observe, that, on the wedding day, the bride presents the bridegroom with a whip of her own making, in token of submission; and this he fails not to employ as the instrument of his authority. Very little ceremony is here used in match-making, which is the work of the parents. Perhaps the bridegroom never sees the woman, until he is joined to her for life. The marriage being proposed, and agreed to, the lady is examined, stark naked, by a certain number of her female relations; and if they find any bodily defect, they endeavour to cure it by their own skill and experience. This is a very wise and laudable custom, which, if it prevailed in other parts of Europe, would prevent many unhappy marriages. The bride, on her wedding-day, is crowned with a garland of wormwood, implying the bitterness that often attends the married state: When the priest has tied the nuptial knot at the altar, his clerk or sexton throws upon her head an handful of hops, wishing that she may prove as fruitful as the plant thus scattered. She is muffled up, and led home by a certain number of old women, the parish-priest carrying the cross before; while one of his subalterns, in a rough goat-skin, prays all the way, that she may bear as many children as there are hairs on his garment. The new married couple, being seated at table, are presented with bread and salt; and a chorus of boys and girls sing the epithalamium, which is always grossly obscene. This ceremony being performed, the bride and bridegroom are conducted to their own chamber by an old woman, who exhorts the wife to obey her husband, and retires. Then the bridegroom [illegible]s the lady to pull off one of his buskins, giving her to [illegible]stand, that in one of them is contained a whip, and in the [illegible] a jewel, or a purse of money. She takes her choice; and [illegible] finds the purse, interprets it into a good omen; whereas [illegible]d she light on the whip, she construes it into an unhappy [illegible]ge, and instantly receives a lash, as a specimen of what [illegible]as to expect. After they have remained two hours together, [illegible] are interrupted by a deputation of old women, who come [illegible]rch for the signs of her virginity: If these are apparent, [illegible]oung lady ties up her hair, which, before consummation, [illegible] loose over her shoulders; and visits her mother, of whom [illegible]mands the marriage portion. It is generally agreed, that [illegible] Muscovite husbands are barbarous, even to a proverb: They [illegible]nly administer frequent and severe correction to their wives, [illegible]ometimes even torture them to death, without being subject [illegible]ny punishment for the murder. If a woman dies, in consequence of the correction she has received from her husband, the law of Russia interprets it not an offence, but an accident. A tradesman of Moscow has been known to burn his wife to death, by setting fire to a smock which had been soaked in spirits of wine; and no cognizance was taken of the murder. A man sometimes ties up his wife to a beam by the hair of her head, and scourges her to death: But such punishments have been reserved for those who were guilty of adultery or drunkenness, seldom inflicted, and now wholly laid aside. Indeed precautions are commonly taken against such barbarous practices by the marriage-articles, in which the bridegroom obliges himself, under certain penalties, to treat his wife according to her quality, supply her with good and wholsome provision, and to refrain from manual chastisement, either by whipping, boxing, kicking, or scratching. If a woman, provoked by hard usage, takes away the life of her husband, a case that sometimes happens, she is fixed alive in the earth, up to her neck, and in this posture suffered to die of hunger: A punishment incredibly shocking, under which some of those wretched objects languish for several days in the most dreadful misery.

The canon law of Muscovy forbids the conjugal commerce on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays; and whoever transgresses this law, must bathe himself before he enters the church porch. He that marries a second wife, the first being alive, is not admitted farther than the church door; and if any man espouses a third, he is excommunicated: So that, though bigamy is tolerated, they nevertheless count it infamous. When the Czar, or Emperor, has an inclination for a wife, the most beautiful maidens of the empire are presented to him for his choice.

Notwithstanding the arbitrary power and brutal disposition of the Muscovite husbands, the women are said to be very free of their favours, and even to transgress the bounds of conjugal fidelity, in order to incur the resentment of their husbands, when the whip is too sparingly administred. This discipline took its origin, many centuries ago, among the Scythian Sarmates, the ancestors of the Muscovites. These people, going in quest of a better settlement, left their wives under the care of their slaves, and made an irruption into Greece, part of which they subdued. These conquests, however, detained them so long, that the women, despairing of their return, married the slaves, who were strong enough to make head against their masters, when at length they returned from Greece. Both sides were already drawn up in order of battle, when one of the Sarmatians, addressing himself to his fellows, observed, that they should debase themselves by using the sword and spear against slaves, whom they had formerly over-awed with the sound of a whip: He therefore proposed, that every man should arm himself with this weapon only: The advice was immediately pursued, and they attacked the enemy with scourges. The slaves had been so accustomed to dread this instrument, that they were instantly seized with a panic, and fled with the utmost precipitation. The prisoners were punished with death, and great part of the women made away with themselves: The rest submitted to flagellation, which was severely exercised. In memory of this event, and as a warning to Muscovite wives, the whip or scourge is the first wedding present, and hung up in the most conspicuous part of the house, that, by presenting itself continually to the good woman's eyes, it may never slip from her remembrance.

Charles-Town, July 14, 1772.

THE Subscriber is much obliged to his planting Friends, who, by landing their Crops at his Wharf for three Years past, have thereby introduced it to Business.—He acted as Factor during that Time, purely to prevent his Friends being Sufferers by their intended Kindness to him, as it was very industriously insinuated, that Rice would not sell at his Wharf: But as he is now well convinced, and flatters himself all his Friends are fully so too, that their Crops, landed in large or small Parcels, will sell altogether as well at his Wharf, as at any other in Charles-Town; and that any Gentlemen, principally concerned in the Factorage Way, will now have no Objection to receive and sell Rice or Indico landed thereat: He therefore chooses to decline that Business, finding it more than he is able to go through. He hopes his good Friends will still land their Crops at his Wharf, where they may depend he shall take Care HIMSELF that their Boats have all possible Dispatch.

As to the Safety and Conveniency of his Docks and Stores, he is sure there are none preferable to them in Town in those Respects, and few (if any) Barns in the Country are cooler and more secure from Fire; and it is almost impossible for a Barrel of Rice to be stolen in landing or shipping at his Wharf. Such Gentlemen as use his Wharf constantly, may depend on never wanting Storage whenever they do not like the going Price:—No prudent Planter but must be convinced, that this is a Matter of the utmost Consequence to him, as many, for these three Years past, have had their Crops (when landed in Town) disposed of very much against their own Inclinations and Judgments, merely for Want of Storage; and this he is sure has been the Case, particularly this Year several Times, notwithstanding the Shortness of the Crop.

Messrs. GIBBES & HORT,

Who have had long Experience in the FACTORAGE BUSINESS in all its Branches, and confine themselves to that only, have taken the Charge of his Scales, and will transact their Business on his Wharf.—To these Gentlemen he begs Leave to recommend such of his Friends who are not otherwise engaged.

Christopher Gadsden.

N. B. Any Gentlemen in Trade may depend on not wanting STORAGE for such Parcels of Rice as they purchase at his Wharf.
